DID COUNCIL THREATEN THE PRESS?

BRITISH NATIONALIST has uncovered a sinister attempt by the Tower Hamlets Liberal Democrats to gag local press coverage of the BNP. We have come into the possession of secret correspondence between the council and the GLEN publishing group, which produces the East London Advertiser. In a memo dated 6 October 1993, Vincent Hanna (a left-wing journalist hired as a PR man by the Liberals) informs council leader Peter Hughes that he has persuaded Phil Evans of the GLEN group to stop "promoting the interests of the BNP" by publishing articles that could be construed as favourable to the British National Party.

A grovelling fax from Mr Evans of the GLEN group apologises for the 'sympathetic' treatment of BNP Councillor Derek Beackon, and promises that "this matter has been corrected for the future."

How did the council bring about this U-turn? It certainly wasn't the magnetic personality of the odious Vincent Hanna that twisted the publisher's arm. The clues are provided in the last paragraph of Hanna's memo: "I think that this has proved a useful test case of their good intentions, and propose to proceed with negotiations."

Negotiations for what? Phil Evans' fax lets the cat out of the bag by referring to "the proposed arrangements to publish the Council's newspaper..."

It seems it's a case of "you scratch my back and I'll scratch yours." If the Advertiser tones down its coverage of the BNP, then they are in with a chance of securing the contract to print the council's newspaper. Or as Vincent Hanna puts it: "A serious desire on the part of senior management to enter into a profitable and open relationship with the Council."

SORDID

This is a rather sordid way of 'leaning' on the media.

Liberal council leader Peter Hughes is becoming rather paranoid about the press. Tower Hamlets council recently sued the News of the World for publishing an article supporting the BNP's accusation that foreign 'refugees' were being housed by the authority quicker than local whites.

6 October 1993 Re: East London Advertiser

You expressed concern to me about the coverage of the BNP Councillor in this week's East London Advertiser. I share your sense of dismay.

I contacted Phil Evans the Managing Director of GLEN and conveyed to him your feeling that the coverage could be interpreted as his Newspaper group promoting the interests of the BNP.

I further informed him that before the Council entered into any further negotiations with GLEN it would need to be sure that promotion of the BNP was not GLEN's intention, that such coverage would be corrected for the future, and that the group shared the Council's total opposition to the policies of the BNP.

He expressed his group's worry that this would be treated as a precedent for constant interference by the Council in the editorial independence of GLEN publications.

I stated that this was not the case, the Council had no desire to affect issues of press freedom, but that the matters raised by this week's coverage were of a different order.

He accepted this and sent the enclosed fax.

I am surprised that he did. A response of this kind, and offered so swiftly, certainly conveys a serious desire on the part of senior management to enter into a profitable and open relationship with the Council.

I think that this has proved a useful test case of their good intentions, and propose to proceed with negotiations.

Dear Vincent,

I refer to our conversation earlier today concerning the coverage of Councillor Derek Beackon in this week's East London Advertiser.

I note and share the concern of Council Leader Peter Hughes concerning the 'sympathetic' treatment of Councillor Beackon and had already taken action on this matter before our conversation. I accept that a disproportionate amount of space was offered to Councillor Beackon in this week's issue and this matter has been corrected for the future.

I would like to stress that the East London Advertiser, along with the Council, vigorously opposes the policies of the British National Party and their attempts to undermine racial harmony in the area.

...the proposed arrangements to publish the Council's newspaper, the joint forum will give us the opportunity for both parties to discuss the coverage of Council matters in the East London Advertiser in a responsible manner.

Yours sincerely,

Philip R Evans

THE EVIDENCE: The Memo (Above Left) was sent by Hanna to Peter Hughes. It states that if GLEN group newspapers demonstrate "total opposition to the policies of the BNP" then Tower Hamlets council will "enter into a profitable and open relationship with the council."

Judging by the grovelling reply (Above Right) sent by Philip Evans of the GLEN group, the pressure exerted by Hanna has had the desired effect. The GLEN group clearly does not want to jeopardise potential revenue from the publishing of council advertising.

BNP THE ADVERTISER PHONE POLL

More than 81 per cent support the BNP

EAST Enders voted massively after the Advertiser's phone vote last week asking: Do you think it is right or wrong that a BNP candidate has been elected to Tower Hamlets Council?
And the result of the vote is a resounding victory for the BNP - the second time they have triumphed in a poll in two weeks.

No.138 DECEMBER 1993
Editor: John Morse

WHO DO THEY THINK THEY'RE KIDDING?

So they're at it again! The leaders of the Tory Party used their annual conference to bang the so-called 'right-wing' drum. There was so much blather from Home Secretary Michael Howard about the state of 'law and order'. Other platform speakers regretted the collapse of family values in modern Britain. Lady Thatcher was loudly ballyhooed across the conference hall in an appeal to the nostalgia of the Tory rank and file for days gone by.

After this threadbare display of populist Vaudeville we're left asking: Do they really think they can get away with this sort of thing any more?

Back in 1979 it was possible for the Tories to fool millions of British voters. There was unease among the people — and rightly so. The country had problems.

There was economic disorder. Inflation and unemployment were rife.

On top of this was an increasing loss of respect for Britain's traditional social ideals, whether in the matter of decaying family values or in that of law and order breaking down.

And of course, in the background there were the beginnings of a really serious racial problem in Britain — though few quite foresaw how far it was to go.

But at that time the British people had not yet experienced the worst disasters that could possibly befall their country. What was more, there was a Labour government in power which could plausibly be blamed for the nation's ills. For their part, as the party of opposition, the Tories had no record in the immediate past on which they could be damned.

This was not least because in the person of Margaret Thatcher they had a brand new leader who seemed to have broken with her party's earlier policy of agreeing with Labour on all the real basics.

In these conditions many patriotic Britons still believed they could get an improvement in their country's condition quickly and easily from within the established political system.

But now, in 1993, 14 years on, it is another matter. Those 14 years, years in which the Tories themselves have ruled, have seen the worsening of every one of the problems that have bedeviled the decadent Britain of modern times. The whole idea of full employment, in the form of British jobs for British workers, seems to have gone by the board. Britain's industries have been wiped out one by one. Economic chaos is still with us. Mass unemployment among our workers now seems set in stone as a part of deliberate public policy.

Criminal mayhem ranging from drug abuse to robbery, rape, riot and terrorism is worse by a whole quantum leap than it ever was in the 1970s.

As for 'family values', the very phrase now seems a joke. Divorce, single motherhood and homosexuality have reached epidemic proportions. The nation's leaders do nothing to encourage a more responsible attitude.

The sickest joke of all is that the Tories were elected in 1979 on a platform of immigration 'controls'. In the last 14 years we have seen wave after wave of immigrants.

EXTERMINATE I.R.A. SCUM!

IRA BUTCHERY:
The nine innocent victims of the IRA's Shankill Road bomb attack included 7-year-old Michelle Baird, and 13-year-old Leanne Murray

AS YET ANOTHER IRA atrocity hits the headlines, the Old Gang politicians have made the usual ritual noises about 'peace talks' and 'political initiatives' in Ulster.

But if the Shankill massacre proves anything, it is that the terrorists don't give two hoots for the platitudes of politicians.

MURDEROUS ATTACKS

The British National Party has said time and time again that there is no 'political' answer to the violence in Ulster. Indeed, the more British politicians bend over backwards to appease the republican minority, the more encouragement is given to the IRA to continue its murderous attacks.

The only solution to the IRA is to fight them on their own terms — in other words, with no holds barred.

This means that the security forces should be given the necessary powers to ruthlessly hunt down and kill anyone whom they are certain is involved with the IRA. In the overwhelming majority of cases, the police and army units in Ulster are perfectly aware who the leading terrorists are, but are unable to 'take out' the guilty men for fear of the legal consequences.

When the British National Party is in power, terrorism will effectively cease within 48 hours, because its leading participants will simply be rounded up and shot, by the army, the police or the SAS.

If this sounds rather 'shocking' to the limp-wristed liberals of Westminster, perhaps they might spare a thought for the women and children who were murdered last month, and the thousands more who have lost their lives in the last twenty years or so.

APPEASEMENT

It is no accident that the 'troubles' in Ulster began around 1969. This was the period when successive British governments first adopted the policies of appeasement and weakness towards Irish republicanism which allowed the IRA to become a malignant growth on the body of Ulster.

For all his talk of "no surrender to blackmail," John Major has behind the scenes been bending over backwards to appease the republican terrorists. His treachery towards loyal Ulster folk mirrors his contempt for Britain.

When the BNP is in power, the IRA and its Sinn Fein apologists will be annihilated in 48 hours

Political correctness gone mad...

Meet Delroy of the Rovers...

ROY of the Rovers has been a comic-book hero for British children for forty years. But thanks to the 'Politically Correct' lobby, Roy has been axed in favour of a new player, Delroy.

Delroy is a black kid from Brixton, the son of a Nigerian immigrant.

The new character has been created by 32-year-old writer Stuart Green, who was commissioned by publishers Fleetway to create a hero more 'credible' for today's kids than the original Roy. According to Green: "The old Roy of the Rovers was born in the late 1950s when Britain still had an Empire and all the heroes were blond, blue-eyed and square jawed. Roy Race had nothing in common with modern teenagers. Delroy is more realistic. He likes nothing better than getting drunk, making a fool of himself and chasing women."

In our opinion, Melchester Rovers could not have picked a worse 'hero' as a role-model for our children. At a time when crime is at its highest ever level, when it is commonplace for teenagers to steal cars, and when two eleven-year olds stand accused of murdering a toddler for kicks, surely we can find better examples to give to our children. If the pathetic performance of the 'England' team is anything to go by, football could do without any more 'heroes' like Delroy of the Rovers.

The 'PC' lobby has a lot to answer for. They have censored Biggles books, removed the golliwogs from jam jars and Noddy books, and now even have the cheek to interfere in our kids' comics. This is yet another example of the Government brainwashing our young people.

SA whites demand safe havens from ANC terror

TERRORIST Nelson Mandela has said 'no' to a separate homeland for South African whites.

White South Africans, many of whom are of British stock, now fear that they will be the victims of mass rape and slaughter when the Communist ANC takes power early next year.

Thousands of whites are arming themselves in anticipation of a Bosnia-style race war. Eugene Terre Blanche's Afrikaner Resistance Movement (AWB) and the white Conservative Party have joined forces with the Zulu Inkatha movement to form the Freedom Alliance. The Alliance favours self-determination for all South Africa's racial groups within a loose federation.

The terrorist ANC has campaigned with the slogan: "One settler, one bullet."

SOUTH AFRICA'S last hope: The AWB's Eugene Terre Blanche leads the resistance to ANC terrorism

Tory perverts want sex with your kids!

IT IS NO surprise to us that a leaked Tory policy document advised lowering the age of consent for girls to just thirteen.

PERVERSIONS

The Tory Campaign for Homosexual Equality (TORCHE) has long been campaigning for queers to be allowed to indulge their filthy perversions upon boys as young as sixteen. Indeed, the Prime Minister himself recently met one of Britain's leading queer rights campaigners to discuss this demand. He was said to be 'sympathetic' to the idea.

This latest distasteful revelation should make people aware of the kind of odious perverts who are openly tolerated within Conservative Party ranks. After all, we have always known that Labour is obsessed with the 'rights' of homos and lesbians. Now it is becoming ever clearer that the Tories themselves support a similar perverted agenda. The thought of ageing Tory 'spanking colonels' disporting themselves with young boys of sixteen is truly revolting.

HYPOCRISY

John Major's hypocrisy about "child pornography" is also rather distasteful considering that his own Government allows chainstores to openly sell pornographic magazines and videos which degrade our womenfolk.

HOW GOVERNMENT RACE BOARD IS SQUANDERING YOUR MONEY

BRITAIN'S most powerful (and most hated) race relations quango is discriminating against white job hunters, according to employment figures.

The Commission for Racial Equality (CRE) has set a target of fifty per cent for 'ethnic' recruitment among its 200 staff — more than five times the official proportion of non-whites in the British population as a whole.

INFLATED TARGET

But worse than this, the nutty quango's own figures show no less than two thirds of the CRE's staff are in fact non-white, thus exceeding even its own inflated target.

The figures were uncovered in the same month that a white worker at the CRE has claimed he was victimised for his colour. Michael Ringe lost his £20,000 a year job as a printroom supervisor and was replaced in 1991 by a black man.

Mr Ringe has gone to an industrial tribunal alleging racial discrimination. The CRE's own figures for 1992 show that only three out of sixteen typists, one out of fourteen secretaries, and three out of twenty-four administrative officers were white.

GUILTY

Ironically, if any other organisation was guilty of this employment policy, it would be investigated by the CRE!

The CRE is just one of a huge range of 'anti-racist' quangos funded by central and local government, using tax-payers' money. The 'anti-racist' industry is estimated to be worth over a hundred million pounds a year.

Directly or indirectly, tax-payers pick up the tab.

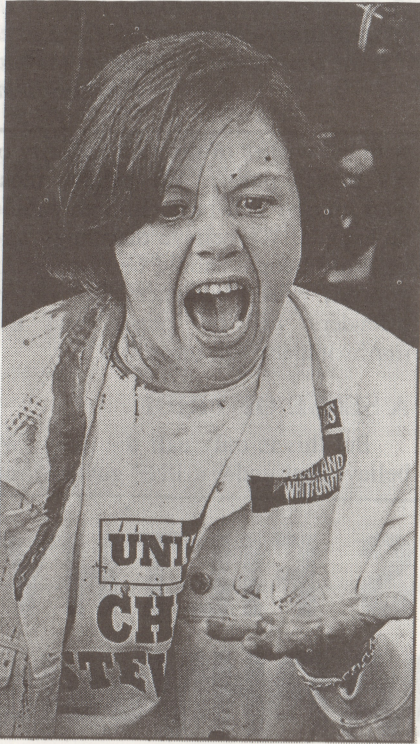

To give a recent example, when the Government allowed the race riot at Welling last month, the march which sparked the riot was led by the so-called 'Anti-Nazi League' (ANAL).

But ANAL is in fact merely the current cover-name for the marxist Socialist 'Workers' (sic) Party, whose members are mostly unemployed drop-outs, beatniks, students, middle-class teachers and local government officers.

By paying state benefits to such human garbage, the Government is effectively subsidising their anti-social activities. Added to which are the costs of the police operation (over a million pounds) and the criminal damage, also thought to be over a million pounds. The taxpayer thus pays the hidden cost of 'anti-racism' as well as the cost of groups such as the CRE.

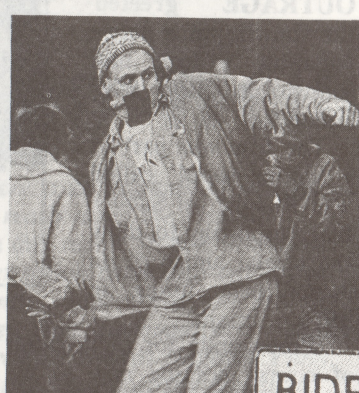

More importantly, outfits such as the CRE help legitimise the climate of hatred against white people which resulted in the Welling riot.

IT IS A TRAGEDY that the Tories' closure programme of mental institutions has left an army of social misfits and inadequates to roam the streets causing mischief and danger to the public. Julie Waterson (Above), a full-time worker for ANAL, is a case in point. If such people could spend a short time in a corrective institution, they could eventually be released into the community to perform useful social functions such as child-rearing.

THE SUB-HUMAN garbage pictured above illustrate the sorts of people behind 'anti-racism'. The hatred of the marxist mob was directed against the ordinary white working class people of Welling, whom the middle-class lefties secretly despise. Groups such as ANAL have much in common with the Tory capitalist bosses they claim to oppose.

Both groups live off the backs of ordinary working people. Millions of pounds a week are being scrounged from hard-working people by the drugged-up hippies, students and drop-outs who form the bulk of ANAL's membership. Most disgusting of all is the hypocrisy of the Tory Government, which donates millions of pounds to marxist 'anti-racist' outfits. Quangos such as the CRE, even if they are not actively involved in racial attacks against whites, are guilty of creating a climate of hatred and fear which leads to violence such as that witnessed in Welling.

FURY AS WHITES BANNED FROM WEDDING

FURY greeted the decision by black bride Takiwa Sankofa to ban all whites from her wedding to an African. When asked if she regretted the racist outburst, Miss Sankofa arrogantly replied: "You can kiss my black ass."

Interestingly, the bride's father was once a community relations officer for the Commission for Racial Equality and was given the MBE for his contribution to 'anti-racism'. Sankofa wrote on the wedding invitations: "It is important that our guests are aware we support the struggle to unite African people worldwide."

Has the wedding group been prosecuted under our infamous 'race relations' laws? Hardly.

RACE LAWS

One could certainly predict that if a group of whites were to forbid blacks from attending a wedding, they would face the full weight of Britain's vicious race laws, not to mention demonstrations by 'anti-racist' groups.

Local white folk in Derby, where the wedding was held, were incensed by the race ban — not because they wished to attend the wedding, but because of the injustice of a system which allows whites (and only whites) to be insulted in this way.

If the happy couple despise white society so much, one wonders why they choose to remain in Britain.

But on the other hand, we have come to expect this type of arrogant hypocrisy from anyone associated with the CRE.

'Racism' against non-whites is strictly taboo and illegal, while anti-white racism is perfectly acceptable. It is the same hypocrisy which refuses to recognise that whites can be the victims of racial attacks or employment discrimination.

Soft Touch Britain

Tories allow foreigners to get rich from our welfare system

BRITAIN is being thrown open to the whole world — as a freeloaders' paradise.

Masses of alien gatecrashers are being encouraged to take advantage of Britain's soft-touch welfare system. We already allow any self-styled 'political refugee' with a hard luck story about 'persecution' back in his homeland to pitch up here demanding asylum and stay on for what amounts to an indefinite period, whilst his individual case is investigated by the immigration authorities.

Not surprisingly, most such individuals, once here, never go home.

CRAZY RULES

This alone would be enough to draw millions of foreigners here. But coupled with this country's crazy rules under the 1988 Housing Benefit Act we're talking about an open invitation card and a blank cheque all in one.

As things stand, wealthy property owners in this country out for a fast buck can take in jobless immigrants and charge the 'going rate', in full accordance with the Tory Government's 'free market' principles. The tab is then picked up by the British taxpayer by way of the DSS and the local authority, who pay the rent.

Alien property spivs Simon Savva and Paul Adaman of Crawford Lettings, a west London agency, are well in on the scam. Said Savva: "We are desperate for people to let us rent their properties. We can't keep up with the influx of foreigners." Partner Adaman confirmed this: "They are queuing up to be housed free of charge" he said.

As the message about soft touch Britain gets around the third world, more and more takers are on the way — and who can blame them?

RENT CLAIMS

Last year rent claims by foreigners were filed with local councils at the rate of 400 per week.

The beauty of it all from the landlords point of view is that they or their agents, people like Savva and Adaman, can whack up rents as much as they like. The unemployed newcomer pays nothing. DSS and local authority officials couldn't care less; it's not their money. The taxpayer is kept in blissful ignorance by the politicians and media, who tell them the minimum so nobody complains.

SCARCE RESOURCES

Meanwhile, native Britons are left wondering why they are left with crumbs from the table. The reason is that scarce resources that should be going to them are being lavished on alien immigrants who never contributed a penny in National Insurance or taxes. As we proved in last month's newspaper, local authorities are under no legal obligation to house white Britons from outside their areas, while it is compulsory for non-British 'refugees' to be housed immediately.

RACKETS

In the south London Borough of Lambeth, a system of backhanders for the 'safe housing' of illegal immigrants is said to exist (see report below). But even apart from the illegal rackets, the lawful abuse of the system is a national scandal.

The Tory government, which has created this mess, is now publicly agonising about how to finance the £50billion budget deficit. The DSS alone accounts for £80billion worth of public expenditure.

IMMIGRATION

An immediate halt to immigration would go far towards wiping out this deficit altogether. But instead of this, Chancellor Kenneth Clarke wants to increase taxes and charges on the productive British majority. Swingeing VAT charges are to be introduced on domestic heating, and the working population is to be charged for services such as health and education. All this will hit the low to middle income groups, the centre of the British population, who once again will have to pay the milch-cow. Aliens on welfare will get the whole lot for nothing.

Mass immigration has long been official Tory policy. John Major won his spurs in the Party over twenty years ago when, as Tory leader of Brixton Council, he drove all opponents of immigration from party ranks and opened the area's housing estates to immigrants.

ON THE GRAVY TRAIN...

Among those from overseas living the life of Reilly in Britain, is an Iraqi, Fahad Al Hamri (Right), who claims to be a 'refugee'.

Along with his two wives and thirteen children (Below), Al Hamri occupy two adjacent luxury mews houses, valued at £250,000 each, just off Maida Vale, north London. Their £219 a week rent is paid courtesy of the British taxpayer. This is one small part of the total £7.3billion in housing benefit paid out by the Government this year. Having got into Britain under our ludicrously liberal asylum laws, the Al Amris instantly meet the requirements of the points system of eligibility for housing. Yet while the Al Amris have the right to housing, a native British family from outside the borough would be turned away, as they would be deemed 'voluntarily homeless'.

Illegal migrants flock to rotten borough...

A RACKET involving the unauthorised letting of nearly a thousand council homes has been uncovered in the 'rotten borough' of Lambeth. Many of the occupants were illegal immigrants, in what appears to have been a massive fraud operation. Copies of official seals from six african countries, used to authenticate documents, were found at one house, and women have been borrowing babies to support claims that they have families. Housing director Peter Camp said: "Our investigations have uncovered a network in Lambeth where people with false documents have been receiving temporary accommodation." Raids on 2,500 temporary homes revealed that one in three had been illegally let. Ninety per cent were West African.

A BETTER WAY OF LIFE

A future BNP Government will not only improve our standard of living, but enable a better quality of life

IT IS NO ACCIDENT that the most popular programmes on British television are those with a high 'nostalgia' content.

Shows such as Dad's Army, All Creatures Great and Small and a host of other dramas set in the pre-war or early post-war years give a picture of a Britain which we have now lost.

It was a Britain in which serious crime was rare, and murder or rape were almost unheard of. It was a Britain which ruled a quarter of the world, and had the military and economic might to defend the interests committing crimes of murder and rape. Our once proud cities and towns are now filthy and scarred by ugly modernist architecture. Family life is rapidly becoming a thing of the past, with the single-parent 'family' becoming the norm. The Empire has long since been dismantled, and Britain is now the poodle of Brussels bureaucrats.

The ugliness of modern Britain hardly needs stating — it is a daily pattern with which we are all too familiar.

Unlike the Establishment parties, housing, as local authorities are legally obliged to house foreign 'refugees' immediately. No such obligation exists to house native British people who move into a borough; they must go to the back of the queue. Immigration also puts further pressure on an already difficult jobs market. Many white Britons feel doubly disadvantaged by so-called 'positive discrimination' which aims to encourage employment of ethnic minorities.

By reversing the immigration avalanche, we can thus simultaneously solve the twin evils of unemployment and homelessness.

LAW AND ORDER

The BNP is of course the party of law and order, and we intend a twin-track approach to crime prevention. Firstly, the Party favours a much tougher response towards the criminal. The BNP will restore capital and corporal punishment, in accordance with the wishes of the vast majority of the British public. We believe those who murder and rape children should be hanged. We believe that thugs who mug old people should be birched. In general, prison sentences for violent offenders will be longer, and life-imprisonment will mean life.

A SENSE OF PRIDE

But this is only half the story. We believe that under a BNP government, crime would rapidly decrease even without the tougher punishments. This is because we will give our young people a new sense of pride in themselves and in their country.

PROPAGANDA

Under the current regime, young whites are made to feel second-rate, as Government propaganda constantly pushes alien cultures and alien 'rights'. The constant, repulsive beat of alien 'pop' music, often accompanied by obscene 'dance' contortions, is a feature of Government-controlled television.

Thousands of our young people are currently languishing on the dole while the Government pumps millions of pounds into 'race-relations' quangos and 'positive discrimination' schemes to subsidise jobs for immigrants.

Under these circumstances, it is hardly surprising that many youngsters feel contempt for themselves and for the rest of society.

DISCIPLINE

A BNP government, needless to say, will reverse this disgusting propaganda, and encourage British people to regain pride in their country. Our schools will put more emphasis on discipline, smartness, and respect for authority. We will stop the flood of alien filth and pornography on our TV screens, and clean up the left-wing subversion in the media which has undermined our country for so long. We will start teaching our children about British history, British culture, and British achievements.

Above all, our commitment to permanent full employment and the ending of homelessness will make Britain once again a land worth living in.

WHEN the BNP is in power, native British families will be guaranteed decent housing, such as that pictured above.

of its citizens. It was a Britain in which the overwhelming majority of its population was of the same Anglo-Saxon and Celtic stock which has inhabited these islands for well over a thousand years.

What a contrast with the Britain of today! Compared with the glories of our past, modern Britain is in a truly pitiful state. Successive waves of mass immigration have made native British people feel like foreigners in their own country. Violent crime is now so commonplace that even children are however, the BNP can offer immediate and positive solutions to remedy Britain's most important problems.

The most urgent problem to be addressed is of course immigration. By halting immigration, we can solve some of Britain's key social and economic problems, such as unemployment, homelessness and social security spending.

Last year alone, the Tories imported over fifty thousand third world 'refugees' into Britain. This kind of influx puts tremendous pressure on

STOP THIS FILTHY PORNOGRAPHY

BBC sinks to new depths in obscene agitprop

OUTRAGE greeted the showing of a pornographic film last month on BBC television.

The film was part of a 'drama serial' called The Buddha of Suburbia, purporting to show the sexual antics of an Asian man living in 1970's Britain.

Propaganda for multi-racial sex is of course nothing new to the BBC. One only has to switch on an episode of Eastenders or Top of the Pops for the full brainwashing treatment.

DISGUSTING

But this particular offering, shown at 9pm on 17th November, was disgusting even by the standards of the marxist BBC.

The TV audience, which probably included millions of children and impressionable young people, were treated to lingering shots of full frontal nudity as British 'actress' Jemma Redgrave engaged in various (presumably simulated) sexual acts with the Asian 'star' of the show. There were scenes of group orgy and perverted sex acts too disgusting to be described in a family newspaper such as this one.

Behind the obscenity was the underlying propaganda message of the BBC: Multi-racialism is 'fun', and if young people don't agree, they are hopelessly unfashionable, if not perverse.

To the left-wing BBC, a programme's offensiveness is of no importance, so long as the propaganda message is rammed home.

Scene from the film

COUNCILLOR BEACKON GOES TO WORK...

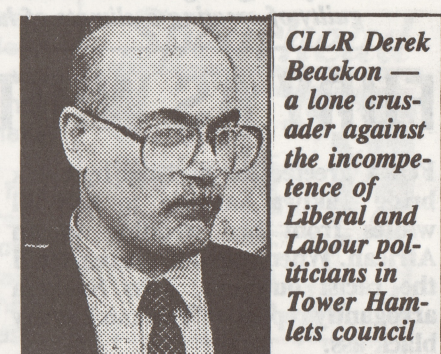

BNP man attends first committee meeting

BNP COUNCILLOR Derek Beackon attended his first council meeting last month — despite attempts by Labour to sabotage local democracy.

As expected, a small rent-a-mob of left-wing 'anti-racists' attempted (and failed) to stop the meeting by force. What was even more disgraceful was the walk-out by extreme left-wing Labour councillors. This is so typical of the Left: When they can't win an argument by peaceful debate, they resort to physical intimidation.

INTIMIDATION

Despite the intimidation tactics, which were aimed as much against the ordinary voters of Millwall as against the BNP, Cllr Beackon attended the meeting. He was able to witness at first hand just how badly the Liberals and their Labour allies are running Tower

CLLR Derek Beackon — a lone crusader against the incompetence of Liberal and Labour politicians in Tower Hamlets council Hamlets Borough Council.

Cllr Beackon's power to change things is limited at the moment, as he is a lone voice against the system. But soon, he will be joined by other BNP councillors, who will put the rights of local people first for a change, after decades of neglect. The old parties won't know what's hit them!

DEMOCRACY: IT'S YOUR CHOICE!... RED WHITE or BLUE

OBITUARY... Ian Stewart Donaldson

IT IS WITH GREAT sadness that we learned of the death of Ian Stewart on 23rd September 1993.

Although not a member of the BNP, Ian helped promote the cause of British Nationalism through his music, most notably with his nationalist rock band Skrewdriver.

Ian died only a week after the BNP's Millwall victory, and he was very optimistic that the Party had finally put nationalism on the road to power.

Ian Stewart will be much missed.

SPONSORED CHARITY JUMP

PAUL WITCHER, Organiser of the BNP's new Barking and Dagenham Unit, is to undertake a sponsored 'bunji' jump. This activity involves jumping from a great height, suspended by a piece of (hopefully) strong elastic. The proceeds will be divided between the Unit's funds and the BNP Security Fund.

Readers are urged to send contributions to the Barking and Dagenham PO Box, which is listed on page seven.

HOW MUCH LONGER CAN MAJOR STAY IN POWER?

THE SHORT answer is: Not very long.

Major's rating in the opinion polls is around twelve per cent, with the Tory party showing twenty-six per cent.

HAMMERED

The most recent by-election fought by the Tories was at Tower Hamlets, where they were hammered by the electorate as BNP candidate Derek Beackon romped to victory.

It is almost certain that the Tories will face a similar hammering at the local elections in May, in which case there will be very strong pressure to dump Major as party leader, possibly by the following November.

The Tories will wheel out some kind of 'right wing' Thatcher-style stooge in a bid to capture BNP voters. But this scenario, which brought the Tories success in 1979 is unlikely to work a second time around.

In 1979 the Conservatives could claim to be the 'opposition' to an appalling Labour Government; this time, they have been in power for over fourteen years and cannot shift the blame onto anyone else.

Labour and Liberal candidates are unlikely to be able to capitalise on the Tories' misfortunes, as the public regard them as equally odious.

The clear winner, currently with an eighty-two per cent opinion poll rating, will almost certainly be the British National Party. The astonishing level of support was revealed by an independent telephone poll of almost five thousand Londoners, carried out by the East London Advertiser.

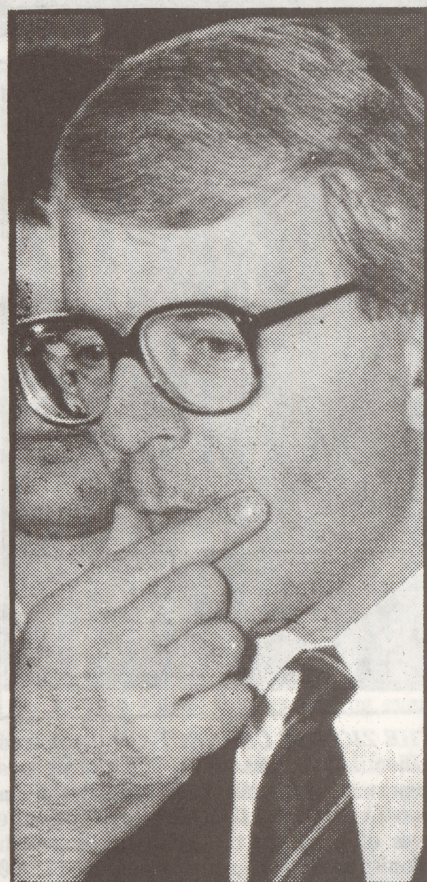

According to Dr Chris Husbands of the London School of Economics: 'If the BNP can take Millwall, not the most natural home for them, they can take wards such as St Peter's in Bethnal Green and areas like Custom House and Silvertown in Newham.'

BNP VICTORY

The prospect of further BNP victories in May could eventually lead to victory in a General Election, perhaps sooner than the political pundits think!

The Government must hold an election within the next three years, and again five years later. If the BNP obtained only half its current opinion poll rating, the resulting votes would be enough to sweep it to power.

All the experts have consistently said that the Millwall result was NOT a flash in the pan; the BNP vote is likely to increase. No wonder Major is keeping his fingers crossed!

"OH DEAR..." No wonder John Major isn't looking very confident after his party was knocked into last place by the BNP in Tower Hamlets. The lame duck Prime Minister commented: "I think it was a very unfortunate result." And so it was — for HIM! Eighty-two per cent of London's electorate would beg to differ with Major's analysis. That is the astonishing number who now say they support the BNP.

Britain's crime crisis

London cop slaughtered by Yardie drugs gang

IT BEGAN as a routine call to attend a domestic disturbance in Clapham, south London.

But as PC Patrick Dunne was about to return to Clapham police station, gunfire was heard from a nearby house. Then three drug-crazed Yardies, who had just killed a rival drug dealer, ran into the street and blasted the unarmed cop with a 9mm handgun.

HIGH ON CRACK

The gang, probably high on crack, fled laughing as the policeman lay dying in the street.

PC Dunne was a popular 'Dixon of Dock Green' type bobby on the beat, who used a bicycle to do his rounds.

But the kind of subhuman filth who sell drugs in the ghettos of Tory Britain do not give a damn for the old fashioned British values of fair play. To them, the killing of a human being is no more important than swatting a fly. In fact, it is the same attitude which motivated the 'anti-racists' who attacked the people of Welling recently.

In a vicious twist to the story, local drug dealers and pimps have taunted police hunting the murderers. One policeman told how a gang in a BMW hurled abuse at him: "There were four blacks inside. A bloke in the back pointed two of his fingers at me as if they were a gun barrel and shouted, bang bang, you're dead." Another officer described the gangs as "local slags." He added: "A lot of them drive BMWs which blast out ragga music."

The ghetto is also the habitat of communists, hippies, anarchists and other forms of white low-life of the sort who organised the Welling race riot. Two such whites were arrested after screaming abuse at a policeman in the street. This type of left-wing, 'white trash' are the sort of degs who keep the drug dealers in business, and are eager customers of the Yardies.

RUTHLESS

Detectives say the Yardies, who dominate the crack trade in the inner cities, are the most heavily armed and ruthless criminals operating in Britain. They are encouraged by Britain's soft treatment of criminals. Tower block estates are the favoured locations, with fortified 'crack houses' in many districts. Drug dealing has grown massively since the Tories came to power. Last year, 2.27 tonnes of cocaine were seized by police, 25 times the level of the mid 1980s.

SLAUGHTERED: PC Dunne

The Welling riot: All our fault!

Here is an example of journalism that really takes the biscuit!

In this report from a Midlands paper which came into our office recently, readers will note that the writer, Bob Haywood, says that the 'extremist' British National Party was the "cause of the scenes of terrifying violence in London yesterday" (this being with reference to the riot in Welling on October 16th in which thousands of left-wing mobsters battled with the police in an effort to get through to the BNP bookshop in order to attack it).

But it seems we were wrong. The mobsters of the left couldn't have been there. That spectre of the berserk crowd waving 'Anti-Nazi League' banners and picket boards and throwing missiles at the cops must have been just our imagination — it must have been the BNP who rioted against the police, not the left. Why? Because Mr. Haywood says so.

BIASED

So what of all the press and TV pictures that showed the left rioting? They must have been fakes — concocted by the controllers of the media, who, as everyone knows, are blatantly biased in favour of the BNP!

In fact, it all seems to have been a sinister BNP plot from the very beginning. Stage an orgy of mayhem

MPs say pay immigrants compensation for delays

WESTMINSTER MPs certainly have a strange set of priorities compared with the rest of the country.

While Britain faces its worst economic catastrophe in history, with a record balance of payments deficit, our parliamentary representatives are busy debating a new compensation system for immigrants whose applications to live in Britain are delayed.

DELAY

The proposal comes from the cross-party Home Affairs Select Committee, and would give would-be immigrants thousands of pounds for "distress or financial losses" caused by delay in handling cases.

Many immigrants have already received payments of up to £23,000 each to compensate for alleged 'inefficiencies' by the Immigration and Nationality Department.

But MPs are apparently worried that not enough immigrants know about the already generous compensation scheme. In future, it will be covered by John Major's Citizen's Charter.

Now BNP targets the Midlands

THE extremist British National Party, cause of the scenes of terrifying violence in London yesterday, is to target the Midlands.

It is feared it could turn the Black Country into Britain's next race-hate battlefield.

The right-wing BNP is planning to mount a twin election challenge in an area already seething over plans to build a Hindu temple in Oldbury.

in Welling, attacking not only policemen but people's homes. Then, with the assistance of the media, get the whole thing blamed on the party's left-wing opponents, who of course were quite innocent of the crime!

Is this really what Mr. Haywood is saying? Well, it may not be quite what he's saying. But what he does clearly say further on in his report is that "Yesterday's mayhem in London was sparked by the BNP by-election victory in the London Borough of Tower Hamlets..."

So, even if the riot at Welling was actually the work of the left, it was still all the BNP's fault. After all, we provoked it by daring to win a democratically constituted election. By this act of intolerable provocation, we naturally were responsible for the violence that occurred at Welling a month later.

And presumably, not only was the BNP responsible, so also were the 1,480 voters of the Isle of Dogs who elected our candidate. The Welling riot was their fault as well.

Mr Haywood is obviously now concerned that the BNP is going to fight some elections in the Midlands next year. It seems that what he is saying is a warning to local voters there. If you elect BNP councillors, or even give them some good votes, the Party's opponents will stage a riot in your area too — and it will be your fault.

So be warned, Midlands voters!

Establishment panics as BNP juggernaut rolls on

THE MASSIVE popularity of the British National Party following the Millwall election triumph is not shared by the political Establishment who currently misgovern our country. It is hardly likely that it would be. The turkeys of Westminster are in fact distinctly unhappy at the prospect of Christmas!

The reaction of the Establishment to Millwall was initially one of blind panic. This has now given way to a more sinister strategy of dirty tricks to try and sabotage the growth of the Party.

Hired thugs were used to attack BNP activists in the run-up to the Millwall poll. Following the BNP victory, the homes of party leader John Tyndall, and more recently, British Nationalist editor John Morse, were firebombed. Fortunately, little damage was done in these attacks, but they were clearly designed to scare others from becoming active within the BNP.

With opinion polls showing the BNP with anything from eighty-one to ninety-six per cent support, Establishment politicians are turning to more and more desperate measures. The latest crackpot scheme from the left is to persuade vast numbers of communist students, hippies, and other inner-city drop-outs to migrate to BNP strongholds and register as local voters in order to vote against the BNP. What the communists seem to have forgotten, however, is that despite all their noise, riots, and attention-seeking antics, they are in fact a tiny minority, perhaps two or three per cent of the population. With the BNP's current rating of over eighty per cent, such tactics will make little difference.

The Tory and communist establishment will just have to get used to the idea that the BNP juggernaut is not going to be stopped!

Ban the BNP says the Northern TUC

These articles from the Guardian (Left) and South Shields Gazette (Right) demonstrate how panic-stricken Establishment stooges are trying to misuse the law to stop the BNP. It is hardly surprising that the communist TUC should call for the banning of the BNP. What is more disturbing is the way in which senior officers are cynically manipulating the police for partisan political purposes. The criminal clique who currently control Britain know full well that their ride on the gravy train will come to an abrupt end when the BNP come to power, and are using every dirty trick in the book to try to stop us.

The booklet, although it deals only with one specific TV programme, highlights the kind of lying and brainwashing techniques that are typical of television and the mass media generally. The Enemy Within is a good item to give out to people who sympathise with the political objectives of the BNP but believe the media smears they have heard about the party. 30p plus 19p p&p.

LEAFLET

REBUILD BRITAIN NOW! Latest British National Party leaflet, produced to spearhead the coming phase of the party's 1993 recruiting campaign. Deals with the BNP policies on the main issues affecting the British economy: Imports, the EC, Immigration, Mine closures, etc. It is essential that BNP local units start ordering this leaflet in big quantities and begin mass-distribution of the leaflet — NOW! £4.50 per 1,000 plus postage charges of £4.10 for 1,000 and £4.65 for 2,000.

REBUILD BRITAIN NOW!

Only the British National Party can rebuild British industry and restore full employment. Only the BNP will bring in selective import controls to protect our industries — just as the Japanese do. Only the BNP will put an end to Third World immigration, which increases the number of people competing for British jobs. Only the BNP will get Britain out of the European Community, which opens the door to European imports. Only the BNP will open more coal mines instead of closing them — the BNP will make Britain totally self-sufficient in energy production. Only the BNP will back British farmers and fishermen — the BNP will increase the number of people producing food and fish for the nation. Only the BNP will supply the massive investment needed to rebuild our lost manufacturing industries. None of the old parties can provide the leadership that Britain needs. Get Britain back to work — join the BNP now!

BRITISH NATIONAL PARTY

Security Fund

Following the election victory in Tower Hamlets, opponents of the BNP have launched violent attacks against Party property and against the persons of its leading representatives. Firebombs were thrown at the homes of BNP leader John Tyndall and BN Editor John Morse, and security of the bookshop in Welling has been threatened. Fortunately these attacks have so far failed, but to minimise further danger, the Party has installed new security fittings at premises likely to be targets of such attacks. These were paid for out of normal Party funds, which must be replaced immediately if we are not to run short of cash.

A Security Fund has therefore been launched with a target of £4,000. We appeal to all readers (particularly the more affluent) to give what they can to this fund, and to do so QUICKLY. So far, £2606.86 has been raised, and we therefore require a further £1393.94.

Contributions should be marked 'BNP Security Fund' and sent to PO Box 117, Welling, Kent DA16 3DW.

STOP PRESS Edmonds still held in jail

BNP NATIONAL Activities Organiser Richard Edmonds has again been refused bail pending further police enquiries into the incident that led to his being detained. Another activist, Simon Biggs, is also still on remand.

The laws of Sub Judice prohibit our commenting on the men's guilt or innocence. What can be said is that their being refused bail is quite extraordinary considering the nature of the case. Bail is normally given to people facing far more serious charges than are involved here. Recently, three men accused of killing PC Patrick Dunne were given bail.

The most recent application for bail was refused on the grounds that Richard is "an organiser of the British National Party" — a decision which amounts in effect to political internment.

The other two members of the 'Recked Lane Four' have since been released on bail.

It is understood that the trial of the men will be in January, which means that they face the unpleasant prospect of Christmas in jail.

In the meantime, we encourage our readers to send them messages of goodwill and support.

Both men are held at HMP Prison Brixton, Jebb Avenue, London SW2. It would be a good idea if those writing to them wrote the words 'Political Prisoner' after their names on the envelope.

HOW LONG BEFORE THE B.N.P. IS IN POWER?

Establishment gets the jitters as Party rides high in the polls

LAST YEAR, when the British National Party achieved twenty per cent of the vote in Millwall during local council elections, our enemies confidently predicted that it was a one-off protest vote which would "evaporate" at the next election.

As the whole world now knows, far from evaporating, the Party's share of the vote doubled, and Derek Beackon became the first ever BNP councillor.

While the Establishment was knocked for six by the Millwall result, it was not quite so much of a surprise to the BNP. Since 1989/90, the Party's electoral performance had been steadily improving, not only in the East End of London, but across the country as a whole. Even if we had not won Millwall this time around, it was only a matter of months before a breakthrough would be achieved.

VICTORY

The Tower Hamlets victory has not only proved that the BNP can win elections, but has caught the imagination of the public as a whole and given new hope to an electorate in despair over the cynicism of the old parties.

Indeed, recent opinion polls suggest that if a General Election was held tomorrow the BNP would win a landslide victory!

A recent telephone poll by the East London Advertiser (a paper which is no friend of the BNP) of nearly five thousand people in the East End, revealed that support for the BNP is running at over eighty-one per cent.

In other words, having seen that the BNP can win seats, many more people are now prepared to support the Party than was the case before Derek Beackon's victory.

SUPPORT

The poll by the Advertiser was no freak result; a number of other soundings across Britain have revealed similar levels of support for the BNP and its policies. An ICM poll commissioned by the Sunday Express revealed that "a huge majority of people in Britain are still worried about immigration." In fact, no less than eighty one per cent said they were 'concerned' about immigration. Thirty-six per cent favoured compulsory repatriation, and a large number favoured some form of voluntary repatriation. Hardly the ideal of 'multi-racial harmony' being pushed by the Government!

Indeed, the Express article went on to predict further gains for the BNP in next year's local council elections. The paper said that in areas of high immigration and high white unemployment "only a minor swing from the main parties would make them BNP strongholds."

Despite the hopes of our enemies, there are a number of good reasons to be confident that support for the BNP will continue to grow rather than decline.

Firstly, opinion polls almost certainly underestimate support for the BNP. This is because many people are still afraid to openly express 'dangerous' opinions on race. Also, the polls include interviews with alien voters who would naturally reject the BNP. Thus, support among the white community is much higher than the polls suggest.

Secondly, unlike previous 'new' parties such as the SDP or the Greens, the BNP's support is not simply built on a short-lived protest vote. Voters quickly deserted these parties when they realised that their policies

A POLL in the East London Advertiser shows that support for the BNP has massively increased since Councillor Derek Beackon's victory in Millwall.

This is because ordinary Eastenders now realise that the Party can win elections, and are therefore prepared to vote for it. The report goes on to say that the BNP is likely to win more seats in local elections next May.

Beackon: It's just the start

THE British National Party's first councillor came out of hiding yesterday and promised more shock results in the local elections next May. Flanked by two sidekicks, Derek Beackon, 38, who won his seat in a by-election at London's Tower Hamlets, predicted they would lead the BNP to victory.

"This is only the beginning," he said. "Look at all the attention one little council election got. What's added to happen when we get an MP? Beackon added that council staff whose threat to walk out led to the cancellation of what would have been his first council meeting last week, were unlawfully sacked and should be sacked.

THIS REPORT in the Sunday Express confirms that the BNP's support in London is also reflected nationwide. The ICM poll commissioned by the paper shows that 81 per cent of the electorate are 'concerned' about immigration levels, and 36 per cent favour compulsory repatriation.

SHOCK WIN FOR THE RIGHT WING

Grim victory stirs

An election win by right wing extremists has sent a shudder through Britain. ANDREW PARKER investigates.

SHOCKWAVES hit British politics today after a surprise victory for the far right British National Party (BNP) in London's East End.

And the victory led to a warning from all political factions in Sunderland that voters must be on their guard.

Candidate Derek Beackon won the party's first ever council seat from Labour with a majority of seven votes in a by-election for Millwall ward, Tower Hamlets.

He polled 1,490 followed by James Hunt (Labour) on 1,483, Jennifer Mills (Lib Dem) 124 and Timothy Dickinson (Conservative) 134.

The openly racist Beackon said, "The British people are no longer prepared to be treated as second-class citizens in their own country."

"The British people are going to take their country back."

RACIAL TENSION

The result comes in an area where racial tension has been rising since last week's vicious attack by a white gang which left Asian student Qudus Ali, 17, in a coma.

Today Labour supporter Dick Copland, chairman of Sunderland's Racial Equality Forum, warned a similar result was possible in the city.

He said: "We must not allow ourselves to be complacent. I am very concerned."

"We have had sufficient activity in the city over the last two years from the BNP to know this could happen in Sunderland. We must be eternally vigilant against its policies and beliefs."

Activists by the BNP and its supporters in Sunderland said Mr Copland had included targeting schoolchildren, selling party newspapers, graffiti, attacks on local mosques and harassment of ethnic minorities at home and at work.

"The BNP is not like any other political party. It is designed to discriminate against sections of our community."

His views were echoed by Liberal MP John Grieve.

VICTORY '93

BNP holds best ever Annual Rally

SATURDAY 6th November was the historic date of the most successful ever Annual Rally held by the British National Party.

CELEBRATION

The Rally, held in south-west London, was both a victory celebration for Millwall, and a call to arms for further effort in forthcoming elections. It was the biggest Rally ever held by the BNP. A Channel 4 documentary shown the following evening claimed over 500 were present; our own estimates were closer to 700.

TRIUMPH

The Rally was a triumph not only in terms of numbers, but also in the professional standard of organisation and security employed by the stewards. Radio phones were much in evidence this year, as delegates were efficiently led to the venue. The large number of international television and newspaper journalists who were invited were escorted and monitored by stewards throughout the meeting.

The international flavour of the journalists present was repeated on the platform, with delegates from America, France and Germany contributing excellent speeches.

Claude Cornilleau gave a fiery speech, congratulating the BNP on its recent success and predicting further gains for nationalist parties across Europe.

A similar theme was explored by Günter Deckert, National Chairman of the NPD, which is the oldest nationalist party in Germany.

Kirk Lyons, one of America's top lawyers, warned of the erosion of civil rights for whites, giving examples from his own country where alien groups were succeeding in promoting repressive laws against white nationalists.

One of the highlights of day was when Rally Chairman John Morse presented BNP Councillor Derek Beackon to the audience. The standing ovation went on for several minutes.

Dave Bruce spoke of the courage of BNP activists such as Derek Beackon, who continued (and won!) his election campaign in Tower Hamlets despite massive intimidation and violence from the opponents of the BNP. Dave also praised the courage of the group of patriots who remained inside the Bookshop at Welling, to defend the premises against a howling mob of ten thousand savages.

EDMONDS IN JAIL

Sadly, one of the BNP's most popular speakers, Richard Edmonds, was not able to be present at this year's Rally as he is being held in jail following an alleged incident at Brick Lane.

Finally, Party Leader John Tyndall gave a rousing victory speech which brought the whole audience to its feet with a standing ovation.

The success of this year's Rally gives a clear indication that the BNP has now entered the 'big league' of politics. The large number attending it reflects the enthusiasm which the Party's recent electoral success has injected into the struggle for power. It should be noted that this year's Rally came too soon after Millwall to enable the mobilisation of the huge number of new members and supporters who have joined since then. In the next few weeks, as these new recruits are organised, the BNP will be able to stage even more impressive activities.

ORGANISATION

Apart from the excellent turnout, the other significant aspect of the Rally is the expertise which was shown in its organisation. The small group of around seventy communists who promised to 'smash' the Rally ended up on the other side of London, totally unaware of the real venue. It was lucky for them that they didn't find us, considering the size of the BNP contingent!

The professionalism of the Rally organisers is another indication that the BNP has truly 'arrived' on the political scene, and is now firmly established as a credible opposition to the old parties of Westminster. Nationalism has got its act together, and is asserting itself as a powerful force in British politics.

The success of the 1993 Rally proves: Tomorrow belongs to us!

BNP Leader John Tyndall delivered a stirring speech which was rewarded with a standing ovation from the 700-strong audience of nationalists.

On the right of the picture is American legal expert Kirk Lyons, one of three overseas guests who addressed the Rally.

Interestingly, it was generally agreed by the foreign guests who attended that Britain would probably be the first European nation to achieve a nationalist government. They were impressed by the huge growth in support for the BNP since the historic Millwall victory.

The Annual Rally is traditionally followed by a social event, and this year's was particularly enjoyable. Seen here are French guests Claude Cornilleau and Michel Faci, veteran nationalist Eric Bass and BNP leader John Tyndall

Kent BNP makes front page headlines

THE BRITISH National Party in Kent made front page news in the local paper following a high-profile paper sale and mass leaflet distribution in Folkestone.

The town is within the constituency of the Tories' odious and unpleasant Home Secretary, Michael Howard, and is also the site of Margaret Thatcher's £8billion white elephant, the channel tunnel.

ESTABLISHMENT

The activity in Folkestone certainly rattled the cages of the local Establishment. The Labour council leader Leslie Adams claimed the BNP would "never win a seat in Folkestone" — exactly the boast that Labour made about Millwall! In the true spirit of 'democracy', Adams called for the BNP to be banned, to prevent it winning more elections.

There were of course similar reactions from the Liberals and Tories. But considering that both these parties advocate legalising homosexual intercourse between 16-year-old boys, they can hardly claim to occupy the 'moral high ground'. Tory councillor Stanley George squealed: "Keep away and don't bother us."

But Kent BNP can promise the Tories considerably more 'bother' in the near future, as local folk are already responding very favourably to the recruitment drive.

BNP RECRUITS IN OUR TOWN

But message from leading Tory is 'stay away' from Folkestone

THE British National Party, in the wake of its first London council seat election victory, has launched a recruitment drive in Shepway.

One reason it is targeting the area is because it wants to cash in on any bad feeling over the Channel Tunnel.

THE BNP's Folkestone activity made front page news in the local Herald, and had local Establishment councillors foaming at the mouth! There were the predictable demands by the old parties to ban the BNP. If they can't defeat us at the ballot box, it must be time to change the rules!

What we stand for

- The establishment of a government of national unity that will put an end to nationally divisive party warfare; the return of leadership and statesmanship to British affairs.
- An end to immigration and a start to repatriation.
- British withdrawal from the Common Market
- The disbanding of the multi-racial Commonwealth and its replacement by a new Commonwealth of self-governing white states.
- British ownership and control of British industry and resources.
- Protection of British industry by the selective exclusion of foreign manufactured goods from the British market.
- An end to the financial swindle that causes inflation and slump, and its replacement by a sane and fair financial system that will give the people the purchasing power to buy the goods they produce.
- The subordination of the power of the City to the power of government, and the harnessing of the City to the needs of British industry.
- The regeneration of British farming, with the object of achieving the maximum possible self-sufficiency in food production.
- Rejection of both the poll tax and its substitute, the new 'property tax', and a return to the old rates system, though with fairer rebates allowing for differences in income and in the numbers occupying properties.
- A healthy environment for a healthy people — the protection of our countryside and an end to the architectural disfigurement of our towns and cities.
- Tougher treatment of criminals, including the return of the death penalty.
- A return to traditional methods of education, with stronger discipline in the classroom and the sacking of 'trendy' teachers.
- An alternative defence strategy: withdrawal from NATO, closure of all foreign military and air bases in Britain, the strengthening of Britain's defences and a position of armed neutrality.
- An end to overseas aid and the allocation of the money saved to the financing of repatriation and greater help for the needy at home.
- The crushing of the IRA, the termination of the Anglo-Irish Agreement and firm support for the loyalist majority in Northern Ireland.
- Repeal of the laws permitting homosexuality and abortion (except where the latter is the result of rape or necessary on medical grounds), the wiping out of AIDS and a return to healthy moral values aimed at strengthening the family and community.
